

American Hero Research Process

We use a values-driven research process to find public companies that we believe best reflect America's founding values, especially Integrity, Humility, Diligence, Caring and Courage. Each company is reviewed annually to insure they maintain the minimum score required for the American Hero Company designation.

